

Question:

Reed sternberg cells are found in-

Answer Choices:

- A. Hodgkin's disease
- B. Sickle cell anaemia
- C. Thalassemia
- D. CML

Reasoning + Answer:

<think> Reed-Sternberg cells are characteristic of Hodgkin's disease , a type of lymphoma . They are large , distinctive cells with a large nucleus and a distinctive "owl's eye" appearance . </think><answer> A. Hodgkin's disease </answer>

