

Question:

A mental health volunteer is interviewing locals as part of a community outreach program. A 46-year-old man discloses that he has felt sad for as long as he can remember. He feels as though his life is cursed and if something terrible can happen to him, it usually will. He has difficulty making decisions and feels hopeless. He also feels that he has had worsening suicidal ideations, guilt from past problems, energy, and concentration over the past 2 weeks. He is otherwise getting enough sleep and able to hold a job. Which of the following statement best describes this patient's condition?

Answer Choices:

- A. The patient is at risk for double depression.
- B. The patient may have symptoms of mania or psychosis.
- C. The patient is likely to show anhedonia.
- D. The patient likely has paranoid personality disorder.

Reasoning + Answer:

<think>

sadness and hopelessness for a long time is indicative of depression .

the use of suicidal ideation , low energy , concentrating problems , and lack of sleep indicates depressive disorder rather than mania or psychosis .

paranoid personality disorder is when people are overly suspicious of other people and being attacked . the patient has no such experience .

the symptoms of anhedonia are low interest or pleasure in activities . the patient reported with the problem that he felt that nothing can happen to him .

</think>

<answer>A . The patient is at risk for double depression .</answer>